Train production personnel, supervisors and managers with the very latest extrusion process technology from Davis-Standard and Paulson Training Programs. This customized training course will enable your extrusion team to:

- Learn the detail of individual components of the Davis-Standard Plasticating Extruder, what they look like and how they operate
- Understand how plastic travels through the single screw extruder
- Learn about the control of plastic melting, flow and pressure in the extruder
- Examine the effects of temperature, pressure and machine design on the material
- Explore ways to optimize control settings on the Davis-Standard Single Screw Extruder

With this program, your personnel will learn the latest Davis-Standard single screw extruder technology using Paulson’s proven interactive training expertise. This state-of-the-art program features full motion video, text, audio and 3-D graphic animation. Personnel will learn plastic behavior and how to maximize the productivity and efficiency of the Davis-Standard extruder.

In 2 lessons (more than 4 hours of training) employees will learn the components of the Davis-Standard extruder, how plastic travels through the barrel and how to optimize the extrusion process.

The program is an introduction to the fundamentals of single screw technology and provides all the knowledge that your personnel will need in order to make informed decisions on the production floor.
